Office: No. 7 Pearl Street, Near Broadway. MINOR MENTION.

Additional local on seventh page. Cheap tickets over all roads at No. 4 Pearl street.

New spring goods just received at J. Reiter's, the tailor, 310 Broadway.

The Old Settlers' society has just adopted resolutions of respect to the memory of Capt. D. W. Price.

Who is going to be on the police force? That is the query which is interesting a large number of aspirants.

Yesterday morning the row between Ad. Davis and Wm. Wagner was adjusted in the police court—Davis being fined and Wagner being discharged.

The Chautauqua circle had a pleasant time last evening at the residence of L. W. Tulley, the programme being a varied one and the entertainment delightful.

Permits to wed were granted yesterday to Edward W. Fleming, of Philadelphia, and Alice Bierce, of Austin, Minn.; also to J. H. C. Stube and Abel Lisnow, both of Pleasant township.

T. N. Bray, of Atlantic, is preparing to open a large boot and shoe establishment here in the Main street store of Barnham, Tulley & Co.'s block. He has the reputation of being an energetic and responsible business man.

A number of visitors are expected from Omaha, Dunlap and other places to attend the grand ball to be given by the Ancient Order of Hibernians at Bloom & Nixon's hall on the evening of the 17th. An extra good time is expected.

A practical showing of appreciation of the services of the veterans can be made by a liberal purchase of tickets for the ball to be given by the G. A. R., on the 20th inst., the proceeds of which are to go to the relief of the widows and orphans and veterans.

Great preparations are being made for the masquerade to be given at the roller skating rink Thursday evening. Some very unique and some very elegant costumes are being prepared, and the sight will be a novel one, while those who participate will have a still merrier time.

Attorney Sears went to Crescent the other day to defend a man who had been sued and succeeded in getting judgment in favor of his client. Now on reaching home he learns that a fresh suit has been started on the same matter by the same plaintiff. The ways of justice are past finding out.

An unusually large crowd gathered at the roller skating rink last night, the occasion being the second contest for the gold watch to be awarded to the most graceful and skillful lady skater. Miss Palmer was awarded the watch by a vote of those present. Miss Palmer received 105, Miss Tostevin 92, Miss Whitney 86, Miss Nason 74.

The case of Nizerius, charged with an indecent assault upon a little daughter of Max Mohn, was to have come up for a hearing yesterday, but by agreement of all parties concerned was continued. A brother of the accused is expected here from the east, and it is understood that a vigorous defense will be made of the horrible charge.

The other day one of Council Bluffs' young men got out a marriage license, intending to soon claim as his own a fair young lady, but before he could get the proacher to tie the knot the girl's father had learned what was going on and balked the plan by taking the girl out of town. It is now reported that the lover has won in the contest, the young man ascertaining where the girl was having gone there and taken her with him, their trip being eastward.

A number of the wholesale liquor houses of the city are preparing to move in view of the passage of the prohibitory law. The law will not affect the retailers so much, but the wholesalers say their trade has been bad enough to handle under the old way, and now it will be so much worse that they cannot stand it. A number of them feel inclined to try Omaha, but if all should come in there the fear is that the business will be overcrowded there. Hence there is some hesitancy as to what to do.

Marshal Eli McCracken, of Cleveland, Iowa, was here yesterday having in charge a dorky, Joseph James, whom he arrested in Omaha and was taking back on a charge of assault and battery and threatening to shoot. It appears that James, who is a miner, had some row with a white workman, and when McCracken tried to arrest him he pulled his revolver on the officer. James got away, and as McCracken had never had a prisoner escape him, he took special pride in getting James back, not because of the heinousness of the offense, but from personal pride. James had been in Omaha two weeks, and having got a job, had sent for his wife, and McCracken following the woman, was at the depot and nabbed James as he greeted his wife.

W. H. Foster, the florist, Harris' street, has the largest and best supply on plants in the west.

PRICE IN THE BLUFFS.

How the Slayer of Nugent was Arrested Here.

The Same Revolver with Which He Did the Shooting Given Back to Him.

The killing of James Nugent by Price has caused no little stir on this side of the river and the tragedy causes the reviving of the recollection that a few months ago Price, in company with a "pal," was arrested by Officer Morse at the transfer, on suspicion of being the parties wanted at Denver for a heavy robbery committed there. Price and his companion were taken to the city jail and there kept locked up, while the wires were set working for further particulars and a fuller description of the men. There was much difficulty in getting at the needed facts to satisfy the minds of the officials as to whether they really were the ones needed or not. In the meantime Price and his comrade became very uneasy and in order to hold them the charge was preferred against them of carrying concealed weapons, each being armed with a revolver. The weapons were, of course, kept in the charge of the officers pending the disposition of the case. The officers finally decided that on the charge of robbery they could not hold them, and so discharged them and let the charge carrying concealed weapons drop also. Price went to Mayor Bowman and represented that he and his comrade had been arrested here under a malicious charge, and as they were simply traveling through here and happened to have revolvers with them, they ought to get their weapons back. Mayor Bowman not knowing the character of Price, or his record, gave an order on the police to turn over the revolvers, which they did. The same revolver which was then given back to Price was the one with which he fired the fatal shot Sunday night, it having been recognized by officers here who remember the weapon and the incident well.

HARD ON HARDING.

Mrs. Dr. Harding Brought to the Front for Not Having a License to Practice Medicine.

Mrs. Dr. Eliza J. Harding, who for so long resided here and had so extensive a practice, seems to have got into trouble with the authorities at Denver, to which place she went with her husband last year, in the hope of bettering his health by a climate change. The details of the affair will be read with interest here by her many old patients and acquaintances and are as follows as given by the Rocky Mountain News of the 7th inst.: "The case of Dr. Eliza J. Harding, charged with practicing medicine without a license, was tried in the criminal court yesterday and attracted a much larger crowd than usual. Among those present were nearly a dozen ladies who came voluntarily to testify in behalf of the treatment of the defendant in the case. These were not allowed to testify, however, the issue tried being not whether she is a competent electric healer, but whether she is practicing medicine without holding a certificate from the state board of examiners.

A large number of prominent doctors were present also to testify as to whether the use of electricity was a part of the practice of medicine. Among others were Dr. H. A. Lomen, Dr. Parker, Dr. J. C. Davis and Dr. Wheeler.

It was shown quite conclusively by the testimony of the gentlemen that the use of electricity for healing purposes is a part of the practice of medicine, and that the good or ill results to follow from its use depends largely upon the skill and knowledge of the person by whom it is applied. It could not be used indiscriminately for all diseases and must be used properly in order to accomplish any good in any.

Dr. Parker testified that the defendant presented the court with a certificate showing that she was qualified to administer electric treatment, but that the board had decided by resolution that proof of this would not be sufficient to entitle an applicant to receive a certificate. He also claimed that she admitted to him that she had never made a study of physiology, anatomy or obstetrics.

There was no evidence introduced to show that any of the defendant's patients had been injured by her treatment, or that she had ventured outside of the field of electric treatment in her practice.

The defendant was present throughout the trial, quite elegantly attired, and conducted herself in an easy and lady-like manner. The ladies who had appeared to testify in her behalf appeared to take a more active interest in the proceedings than she, and it would be difficult at first glance to determine which was the defendant.

At the case was tried it was very clearly against Mrs. Harding, there being nothing to prove but that she was practicing medicine without a license. And yet there did not appear to be any strong popular feeling manifested by the crowd in attendance. Indeed, it would not be far from the fact to state the sympathies of the crowd were rather with Mrs. Harding. This feeling was rather encouraged by the address of Colonel Montgomery, who claimed that the action of the board was the result of a desire on the part of the regular schools of medicine to preserve a monopoly of "living on human blood."

Judge Rogers charged the jury that, if it was found that the defendant was practicing medicine without a license, they should find her guilty, and that if they were of the opinion that the use of electricity as a healing agent was not a part of the practice of medicine, the jury should acquit.

The jury, after being out one hour, brought in a verdict of guilty. An appeal to the supreme court will be taken in the case.

Fire Escapes.

Senator Carson, of this city, introduced an act requiring that all public buildings, theaters, hotels, boarding houses, and other buildings of a greater height than two stories, wherein people assemble, shall be provided with sufficient safe and convenient fire escapes.

Resolutions of Respect.

The Old Settlers society, at their last meeting, adopted the following resolutions: WHEREAS, The Hon. D. W. Price departed this life, at his residence in this city, on the morning of February 17, 1884, after a short illness.

Resolved, That the deceased was distinguished for many virtues, and noted traits of character, among which we may mention his genial spirit; his persuasive manner; his logical mind; his fascinating eloquence; his devotion to literature, and his love for the beautiful; qualities which made his presence, alike at the bar, in public gatherings or in the quiet course of social life to be at all times equally sought for, and united in winning to himself the love of his intimate friends and the respect of the community, feelings which deepened in intensity as the years rolled on towards his final departure. And,

WHEREAS, The deceased had been a resident of this county for upwards of thirty years, and was therefore, at the time of his death, one of the oldest settlers; therefore,

Resolved, That we, the old settlers of the county, heartily bear this testimony to Hon. D. W. Price, and while we extend our sympathies and condolence to his mourning family, we desire to express our deep regret that he could not have been spared to this community, and also to mingle with us in the new society we have formed, composed as it is of those who had personally known and loved him during his entire residence in this county.

Resolved, That these resolutions be entered at length upon our minutes and published.

D. C. BLOOMER, W. A. MYERS, A. V. LARIMER, Committee.

and that owners failing to thus provide escapes shall be fined not less than $20 nor more than $100. The bill provides also that the trustees of all state institutions shall provide such of the public buildings of the state with fire escapes, as the executive council may direct. In Council Bluffs there is especially some need for action which will force the owners of large buildings and halls to provide suitable fire escapes. There is also need for some measure by which buildings may be officially inspected, so that their safety, their proper mode of construction, their freedom from extra risks of fire, and their modes of ingress and egress, may be carefully seen to and the public given assurance of safety, or warning of danger, as the facts may warrant.

THE FAST MAIL.

Reached Council Bluffs on Time Last Evening.

There was much interest manifested here last evening in the arrival of the fast mail from Chicago. It was brought in on the regular C. B. & Q. No. 3, arriving here on time at 7 p. m. This train leaves Chicago about 10 p. m., but leaving as usual on Monday night it took no mail. The fast mail train from New York arrived in Chicago a little after 12 on Tuesday morning, and a little after 3 a. m. the fast mail for this section started out and flew over the road until it overtook the regular train, which left at 10 the night before, at Ottumwa. The fast train consisted of a mail and baggage car, one passenger coach and Vice President Potter's private car. This car was left at Burlington, and on reaching Ottumwa the other coach was dropped and the baggage and mail cars were attached to regular train No. 3 and brought to this city. One car was taken off at Pacific Junction and sent thence by Plattsmouth, and the train which arrived here had the same make-up as usual. Arrangements have been made by which No. 3 will leave Chicago at 10 p. m. as usual and the fast mail next morning at 3 a. m., overtaking it at Ottumwa if possible, but if not it will continue on until it does. The run was made yesterday from Chicago to Ottumwa, a distance of 281 miles, in 7 hours and 5 minutes including stops, one of 30 minutes at Burlington. The distance from Chicago to Aurora, 38 miles, was gone over in 41 minutes; to Galena, 103 miles, in 3 hours, including 5 stops, and from Burlington to Ottumwa, 75 miles, in 2 hours and 5 minutes including stops in delivering and receiving mails.
